[Identification of item] Shenandoah County Library System Collection, 1911-2021, Truban Archives, Shenandoah County Library, Edinburg, Virginia, USA.

Biographical / Historical

In 1983 the Shenandoah County Board of Supervisors established the Shenandoah County Library to provide free library services to residents of the county. Two years later the library opened in the basement of the Crestar Bank in Edinburg, Virginia. A new building on Stoney Creek Blvd. was dedicated in 2000.

In 1997 the Shenandoah County Library System was formed to integrate the efforts of the county library and the other community libraries that existed in Shenandoah County. While all of these organizations retain their independence, the system allows them to share items, a common catalog, IT support, and funding sources. As of 2017 the system consisted on the Fort Valley Library, Strasburg Library, Orkney-Basye Library, Mt. Jackson Library, and New Market Area Library. The Edinburg Community Library was a founding member of the system but disbanded in 1999.

All of these libraries provide a wide array of materials and programs for their community. In addition, since 2000 the Shenandoah County Library has maintained the Shenandoah Room and Truban Archives which is a collection of materials related to the history of the area.
