Acquisition Information

These records came to the Library of Virginia in transfers of court papers from Albemarle County in an undated accession.

Mason, Walker and Richardson Records, 1860-1875, came to the Library of Virginia in transfers of court papers from Fluvanna County in an undated accession.

Processing Information

Prior to 2024, the various business records in this collection were originally described as individual records, but they have been consolidated into one large business record for the locality. Additional records for this locality were also found in Fluvanna County.

In 2024 Local Records staff made the decision to include the Mason, Walker and Richardson Records, 1860-1875 in the Albemarle Business Records descriptive guide as the sphere of activity is more central to Albemarle than to Fluvanna County despite being transferred by the Circuit of Fluvanna County.

Historical Information

Context for Record Type: Business Records, both volumes and loose records, are in some cases transferred to the Library of Virginia as components of court record transfers. These business records in some cases were simply stored in the local court building for safe keeping by business owners. In other cases, business records (particularly ledgers, account books, etc.) may have been filed in a court case as an exhibit. These business record exhibits appeared both in chancery causes and in judgments, these records serving as exhibits for business dissolution cases, debt suits, and contract disputes.

Locality History: Albemarle County was named for William Anne Keppel, second earl of Albemarle, and governor of Virginia from 1737 to 1754. It was created by a statute of 1744 and formed from Goochland County; part of Louisa County was added in 1761 and islands in the Fluvanna (now the James) River in 1770. The court met for the first time on 8 February 1745. The county seat is the city of Charlottesville. Area: 722.6 square miles. Population: 94,186 (2000), 90,400 (2005 estimate)

Lost Records Locality: Albemarle County is one of Virginia's Lost Records Localities. Created in 1744. All order books except the first and many loose papers between 1748 and 1781 were destroyed by British general Banastre Tarleton's raid on Charlottesville in 1781 during the Revolutionary War.
