

Lindbergh, Charles, Interview Advertisement

Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement

c. 1927

Title Statement

Lindbergh, Charles, Interview Advertisement Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement, c. 1927
Ms.2024.063

Author: Kat Zinn, Archivist

Sponsor: The processing, arrangement, and description of this collection was created as part of the project, "Piercing the Veil: Creating Access to the Archives of American Aerospace Exploration at Virginia Tech," funded by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC) from 2022 to 2024.

Publication Statement

Publisher: Special Collections and University Archives, Virginia Tech

Special Collections and University Archives, University Libraries (0434)
560 Drillfield Drive
Newman Library, Virginia Tech
Blacksburg, Virginia 24061
Business Number: 540-231-6308
specref@vt.edu
URL: <http://spec.lib.vt.edu>

2024 (CC0 1.0)

Profile Description

Creation: This finding aid was produced using ArchivesSpace on 2024-10-29 07:14:21 -0400.

Language Usage: Description is written in: English, Latin script.

Descriptive Summary

Unit ID

Ms.2024.063

Unit Date

c. 1927

Language

Materials in this collection are in English.

Abstract

This collection consists of an advertisement for an interview from Charles Lindbergh, notable American aviator. The advertisement states that this is Lindbergh's "first interview to a woman's magazine in the November issue of Pictorial Review."

Extent

0.1 Cubic Feet 1 folder

Repository

Special Collections and University Archives, Virginia Tech

Administrative Information

Conditions Governing Access

The collection is open for research.

Conditions Governing Reproduction and Use

The copyright status of this collection is unknown. Copyright restrictions may apply. Contact Special Collections and University Archives for assistance in determining the use of these materials.

Reproduction or digitization of materials for personal or research use can be requested using our reproduction/digitization form: <http://bit.ly/scuareproduction>.

Reproduction or digitization of materials for publication or exhibit use can be requested using our publication/exhibition form: <http://bit.ly/scuapublication>. Please contact Special Collections and University Archives (specref@vt.edu or 540-231-6308) if you need assistance with forms or to submit a completed form.

Source of Acquisition

This collection was acquired by Special Collections and University Archives prior to 2013.

Processing Information

The processing, arrangement, and description of the Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement was completed in June 2024.

The processing, arrangement, and description of this collection was created as part of the project, "Piercing the Veil: Creating Access to the Archives of American Aerospace Exploration at Virginia Tech," funded by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC) from 2022 to 2024.

Preferred Citation

Researchers wishing to cite this collection should include the following information: [identification of item], [box], [folder], Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement, c. 1927, Ms2024-063, Special Collections and University Archives, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Va.

Biographical Note

Charles Augustus Lindbergh was born on February 4, 1902, in Detroit, Michigan, to Charles August and Evangeline Lodge Land Lindbergh. He grew up largely in Little Falls, Minnesota, and Washington, D.C., where his father worked in Congress. Lindbergh enrolled at the University of Wisconsin, but left after two years to pursue aviation at a flying school in Lincoln, Nebraska, instead.

Lindbergh enlisted in the United States Army in 1924 and completed flight-training school at the top of his class in 1925. In 1926, he became an airmail pilot, flying from St. Louis, Missouri, to Chicago, Illinois. At the same time, Lindbergh convinced nine St. Louis businessmen to sponsor his attempt at competing for the Orteig Prize, a $25,000 reward offered for the first person to complete a nonstop flight between New York and Paris. On May 20, 1927, Lindbergh took off from Roosevelt Field, near New York City. He landed 33.5 hours later at Le Bourget Field, near Paris, France. For this accomplishment, Lindbergh was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and many other honors.

Lindbergh married Anne Morrow in 1929. The couple flew many times together, with Anne serving as copilot and navigator. They had six children together. Tragically, their first, Charles Augustus, Jr., was kidnapped and murdered in 1932. This event led to the passing of the "Lindbergh Law," making kidnapping a federal offense if the victim is transported over state lines or if mail service is used to demand ransom. The overbearing press coverage forced the Lindberghs to move to Europe for privacy in 1935. They returned to the U.S. in 1939.

In 1938, Lindbergh was given the German medal of honor by Hermann Goering. This, in addition to his outspoken views of neutrality during World War II, white supremacist statements, and criticisms of President Roosevelt's foreign policies caused many to suspect him of being a Nazi sympathizer. After being publically criticized by Roosevelt, Lindbergh resigned from the U. S. Army Air Corps. He reversed his stance on noninvolvement after the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, but his request to reenlist was denied. Instead, he served as a consultant and test pilot to the Ford Motor Company and the United Aircraft Corporation. In 1944, Lindbergh began serving as an advisor to the U.S. Army and Navy in the Pacific War arena. He flew about 50 combat missions as a civilian, but is better known for developing techniques to reduce fuel consumption.

After the war, Lindbergh continued to consult for Pan American World Airways and the U.S. Department of Defense. The family continued to live quietly in Connecticut, eventually moving to Maui, Hawaii. Lindbergh developed an interest in environmental conservation, campaigning for the protection of endangered species and opposing the development of supersonic transport planes.

Lindbergh died of cancer on August 26, 1974, in Maui.

External Sources:

"Charles Lindbergh Biography," charleslindbergh.com, <http://www.charleslindbergh.com/history/>, accessed June 5, 2024.

"Charles Lindbergh," Britannica, <https://www.britannica.com/biography/Charles-Lindbergh>, accessed June 5, 2024.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of an advertisement for an interview with Charles Lindbergh, notable American aviator. The advertisement states that this is Lindbergh's "first interview to a woman's magazine in the November issue of Pictorial Review."

Keywords

Air pilots

Archives of American Aerospace Exploration (AAAE)

Lindbergh, Charles A. (Charles Augustus), 1902-1974

Rights Statement for Archival Description

The guide to the Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement by Special Collections and University Archives, Virginia Tech, is licensed under a CC0 (<https://creativecommons.org/share-your-work/public-domain/cc0/>).

Description of Subordinate Components

Charles Lindbergh Interview Advertisement

Unit Date c. 1927

folder 1