Historical and Biographical Information

William J. "Bill" Elvin was born in Dumfries, Scotland on February 15, 1918 and emigrated to Frostburg, Maryland at the age of six. He attended the University of Michigan studying political science and was an associate editor of the student newspaper The Michigan Daily. After graduating, Elvin married Jane Legge of Cumberland, Maryland and later had four children with her. In September 1942, Elvin enlisted in the Army and became an officer in the Third Army under Gen. George S. Patton. He was wounded in France in 1944, and received the Purple Heart and Silver Star.

After the war, Elvin and his family moved to Northern Virginia in 1947. Elvin worked for the Fairfax Standard from 1947-1948, and later the Washington Star for eight years. In 1956, Elvin purchased the McLean Providence Journal from founding editor Richard Smith and subsequently moved to McLean, Virginia the following year. He wrote and edited the Journal from 1956 until he sold the publication to David Dear in 1986 but remained an associate editor. Elvin retired in 1991, but bought back the paper from Dear in 1995 renaming it The McLean Times and sold it to Arcom Publishing in 1996. Elvin once again retained his associate editor title for the paper and continued to write articles until a few weeks before his death on August 26, 2004.

Throughout his life, Bill Elvin was actively involved in the McLean community as a prominent member of the McLean Lions Club, McLean Historical Society, McLean Business and Professional Association, and McLean Citizens Association. In 1996, he won the "Citizen of the Year" award for his active participation in the McLean Citizens Association. Elvin also had a profound knowledge of McLean history and heavily contributed to several historical publications.
