Administrative Information

Access Restrictions

The collection is open for research.

Use Restrictions

Contact archivist to ask about reproduction of images.

Acquisition Information

Virginia Commonwealth University Libraries purchased the collection in 2021.

Processing Information

Upon receipt of the collection VCU SCA staff inventoried and reboxed the collection. They removed acidic backing and enclosures when possible and unframed the silhouettes and other items for preservation purposes.

When on loan to the Virginia Historical Society, the staff assigned the accession number, 2003.300, to the print collection, and numbered each individual item (e.g., 2003.300.1, 2003.300.2, etc.). The staff at VCU retained the individual item number assigned by the VHS and kept the physical collection in the original numeric order. Prints are housed in groups of 25 per folder. Any oversized prints are stored in large print boxes, and their location is noted on an item removed list in the original folder. To facilitate easier access, the finding aid contents list is arranged alphabetically. There are a small number of prints without an item number. These were either unaccessioned framed items or were part of a portfolio labeled "Holland, Belgium, Norway, Sweden" that were never individually numbered.

Biographical / Historical

Dr. Joseph Lyon Miller, son of James Henderson Miller and Finetta Ann Lyons Miller, was born at Beech Hill in Mason County, West Virginia on 10 October 1875. Educated locally before enrolling at Barboursville College in neighboring Cabell County, Miller also attended the University of Nashville prior to moving east in September of 1897 for medical school. Miller completed the three-year program at the University College of Medicine in 1900. Following graduation, he accepted a position as assistant to the chief surgeon and medical director of the Davis Coal and Coke Company. Around 1904, he moved to Ashland, Kentucky and established a private medical practice for 18 months before returning to Thomas, West Virginia. Miller resumed his association with Davis Coal and Coke and became medical director in his own right in 1917. In this same period, he also held the role of surgeon for the Western Maryland Railroad. During World War I, Miller served in the U.S. Volunteer Medical Corps as the medical director for mine operations in his area of West Virginia.

Miller married Pamela Dorcas Hampton of Ashland, Kentucky on 3 June 1902 and the couple had three children: twin boys born in 1903 and a son born in 1906. This son, John Hampton Miller would follow his father into medicine and graduate from the Medical College of Virginia in 1932.

An active member of his community, Miller served as a member of the town council, as mayor of Thomas, and as president of the local board of health. He was a 32nd degree Mason. Within organized medicine, Miller remained active with the local medical organization, the West Virginia Medical Society, and the Southern Medical Association. His contributions to the medical literature consisted primarily of historical works, his major hobby and passion.

Early in his career, he began publishing in state historical publications and was widely known for his local history and genealogical work. He published several book-length genealogies that remain valuable today. Miller's medical practice provided him with the discretionary income to build a historical library related to the history of Western medicine. Over the years, he built a significant collection by establishing relationships with rare book dealers in Europe and by making purchases without ever leaving the United States. In 1932, Miller donated this valuable collection of over 6,000 books, prints and manuscript items to the Richmond Academy of Medicine after it had constructed a permanent home with an appropriate library. Miller continued collecting, writing, and researching after relinquishing his collection to the Academy. He donated other books, manuscripts, and images to various historical and medical libraries across the southeast. In 1930, the Medical College of Virginia honored him by conferring the doctor of letters degree.

Miller died on 5 January 1957 and is buried in his wife's family plot in the Ashland Cemetery, Ashland, Kentucky.

Content Description

The Richmond Academy of Medicine Joseph Lyon Miller Collection of prints consists of engravings, lithographs, photographs, prints, and silhouettes dating from the 17th to 20th centuries that are related to the history of medicine. Many of the items were initially included in publications while others were issued as individual prints. The highlight of the collection is the silhouettes of American and British physicians. These silhouette portraits were cut from life and date from 1750 to 1850. A number of prominent silhouettists are represented including Charles Wilson Peale, William H. Brown, and Auguste Edouart.

The print collection includes likenesses of physicians from the United States, Great Britain, and western European countries. There is also a small section of prints of Greek, Roman, and Islamic physicians. The collection is a good source for studying perceptions of medicine in the 17th and 18th centuries in particular. The artists' selection of iconography is varied and often more interesting than the individual depicted in the print. The photograph section includes a number of rarer images of Virginia physicians, some photographs of painted portraits and others photographic copies of original images. The photograph section also includes images of physicians' homes, hospitals, and medical schools. There are a number of medical caricatures represented in the collection as well as medical art prints.

Custodial History

Joseph Lyon Miller donated his collection of books, prints, and manuscripts to the Richmond Academy of Medicine in 1932. The collection remained in the Richmond Academy of Medicine Building until May of 1988, when it was placed on long-term loan at the Virginia Historical Society. In 2021, Virginia Commonwealth University purchased the collection from the Richmond Academy of Medicine and moved it from the Virginia Museum of History and Culture (former Virginia Historical Society) to VCU.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged in four sections: Prints--people, prints--other, photos, and silhouettes. Within each section, items are arranged in numerical order according to individual item numbers. These numbers were assigned by the Virginia Historical Society when processing the collection while in their custody.

There are a small number of prints without an item number. These were either unaccessioned framed items or were part of a portfolio labeled "Holland, Belgium, Norway, Sweden" that were never individually numbered.

To facilitate easier access, the finding aid contents list is arranged alphabetically.

Unit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/70708

Graphic Materials P2 (box)

Container 895 (item)

Scope and Contents

Jenner Applying Vaccination, "A caricature by Gillray. When the drawing was made vaccination had been introduced only six years and many fantastic objections were raised against the practice by anti-vaccinationists. Gillray cites the inspiration for his picture-'vide the Publications of the Anti-Vaccine Society.' A commentator of this drawing says: 'Dr. Jenner, and excellent portrait, is seen in the exercise of his discovery; a workhorse lad, impressed into the service as his assistant, is holding a milk pail filled with vaccine pox hot from the cow. A second doctor is in attendance, dispensing medicines to promote the effects of the vaccination, which are strongly developed on all sides. Various whimsical results are pictured in the unfortunate subjects with whom the process may be said to have taken. A picture in the background, founded on the worship of the golden calf, represents the adoration of a cow.' "

Graphic Materials P2 (box)

Container 901 (item)

Scope and Contents

"Physicians Argue and the Patient Dies." "This is the last picture in a series by Hogarth, entitled 'The Harlot's Progress.' The following is from the comments of the Reverend J. Trusler, who apparently had a rather low opinion of the physicians: 'Released from Bridewell, we now see this victim to her own indiscretions breathe her last sad sigh; and expire in all the extremity of penury and wretchedness. The two quacks, whose injudicious treatment has probably accelerated her death, are vociferously supporting the infallibility of their respective medicines, each charging the other with having poisoned her. The meagre figure is a portrait of Dr. Misaubin, a foreigner, at that time in considerable practice.'

Scope and Contents

This is a silhouette of Dr. John Archer, full body black image with a white background. On reverse: Dr. John Archer (1741-1810) Harford Co., Md. In 1901 this silhouette was purchased from a Baltimore dealer in antiques, who said it came from a family that claimed to have had it for a hundred years and had known it as the portrait of Dr. John Archer, who had been the instructor of ancestor of theirs. It bears no marks of identification. The portrait however answers the description of Dr. Archer given in Cordell's Medical Annals of Md. Nov. 24th 1926 I had the pleasure of visiting Dr. George Archer, a grandson of Dr. John Archer, at his home at Bellaire, Md., in company with Miss Noyes, librarian of the Medical & Chirurgical Faculty of Md. Dr. Archer remarked as soon as he was shown the silhouette "that is a picture of Dr. John Archer and I recall having seen it many years ago, but do not remember who had it." He further said that he did not think it was a very good likeness, but when he compared it with an original portrait of Dr. Archer now in his possession it was found to conform in every feature with the portrait, except as he said the nose was "sharper," but this can be easily accounted for by the fact that one is profile and the other full face, and the silhouette probably represents a later period in life than the portrait, as it was there was but little difference. Dr. Archer was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1760, and A.M. 1763. Was ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church, but later decided to study medicine, which he did under Dr. John Morgan of Phila., later being graduated M.D. in 1768 with the first class in the first Medical College in America, The Philadelphia Medical College (now the Univ. of Penn.) receiving the first diploma given in a class of ten. The next year he settled in Harford County, and at his home built "Medical Hall" and conducted a private school for instruction in medicine and in the next forty years trained over fifty of the leading physicians of Maryland and adjoining states. He was a member of the Committee of Observation, 1774-'75; Delegate to the Maryland Convention, 1776; Judge of the Orphans Court, 1782; Presidential Elector, 1796; Member of Congress, 1801-'07.

This is a framed silhouette of Dr. Elisha Bartlett, full body, with Bartlett facing to the right. "This silhouette was given by Bartlett, himself, with one of Dr. Ephraim McDowell, to Dr. Fielding Davis, of Woodford County, KY, who was a pupil of his at Transylvania University, and they were both then given to me in 1905 by Dr. Davis, my kinsman. Underneath the loose part of the silhouette is written 'E. Bartlett, Prof. Practice Boston, May 24, 1842' Elisha Bartlett, M.D. (1804-1855) of Rhode Island is classed with Dr. John T. Bassett of Alabama, and Samuel H. Dickson of South Carolina as: 'A trio of elegant and attractive litterature.'-Garrison. After a fine preliminary education he took his degree of M.D. from Brown University in 1826, after which he had a year of post graduate work in Paris under Cloquet, Cuvier and other well known French physicians. For twenty years he held a chair in many medical schools as follows: 1832, Berkshire Medical Institute, Massachusetts, Patholocal Anatomy & Materia Medical 1839, Dartmouth College, New Hampshire, Practice of Medicine. 1841-44, Transylvania University, Kentucky, Practice of Medicine. 1844. University of Maryland, Practice of Medicine. 1844. Vermont Medical College, Materia Medica and Obstetrics. 1849. University of Louisville, Kentucky, Practice of Medicine. 1850, University of New York, Practice of Medicine. 1852, College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, Materia Medica & Jurisprudence. Osler says 'Bartlett was at his best in the occasional assress,' and his 'Essay on the Philosophy of Medicine' (1844) is 'a classic in American Medical literature,' also that his pictures of Hippocrates in his 'Discourse on the Times, Character and Writings of Hippocrates' (1852) are 'masterpieces worthy of Walter Savage Landon.'"

A silhouette of Levi Bartlett, M. D. He is facing left and the silhouette is a head and shoulders view. His name is in script under the silhouette. H., Signer of the Declaration of Independence, Colonel in the Revolution, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas (1779), Justice of the Superior Court (1782), Chief Justice of the State (1788), and unanimously elected the first Governor of the State of New Hampshire in 1793. This silhouette was acquired from Mr. Walter Romaine Benjamin of New York when I purchased from him, the medical letters of the Bartlett papers. The finish of the bust and treatment of the hair show unmistakingly that it was cut by Everett Howard, though unsigned. An authority on silhouettes, Mrs. Alice Van Leer Carrick, says of Everett Howard "his is a rare name" among profilists, and " the crisp and almost calligraphic finish of the bust is interesting and characteristic." Silhouette cut by Auguste Edouart on May 26, 1844, Lexington, Kentucky, of Dr. Joshua Taylor Bradford of Augusta, Kentucky. The silhouette is full figure with the subjects left hand on his waist and he is holding a hat in his right hand. On the reverse: Dr. Bradford was born in Bracken County, Ky., Dec. 9, 1818, son of William and Elizabeth Bradford who came from Virginia to Kentucky in 1790. He was educated at Augusta College, later studied medicine with his brother, Dr. J. J. Bradford, and in 1839 received his degree of M. D. from Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky. Dr. Yandell describes him as follows: "In manners he was dignified, urbane, cordial, and gentle. Of an imposing presence he was a man to attract notice and command respect in any circle; and his warm feelings, varied attainments, and social nature made him one of the most charming of companions." "From the beginning he directed his attention to surgery, and in all probability received much of his inspiration from Benjamin Dudley his surgical teacher in the Transylvania University. Soon after graduation, he successfully performed an ovariectomy. And it was not long before he became the foremost surgeon of Kentucky, and of all the west in that affection. Nor is it too much to say that at the time of his death he stood first among surgeons everywhere --in Europe and in our own country --as an ovariectomist. Not that he had done the operation oftener than any other surgeon. Such is not the fact. It has been performed much oftener by Atlee, Wells, Dunlap and others; but by none with the measure of success that crowned his operations. In the hands of the surgeons just mentioned the recoveries were respectively 71, 73, and 80 per cent. With Bradford his successful cases amounted to 90 per cent.... In whatever cases he was called to operate he exhibited the same coolness and dexterity, the same fruitfulness in resources, and the same thorough knowledge of his art." "Not being ambitious he preferred the charms of his "Piedmont" home at Augusta to the allurements of professional life, which goes far towards explaining the comparative obscurity into which he lapsed. Strange too, unlike McDowell, Dudley and others he was almost lost to the medical literature of Kentucky, which is not altogether to the credit of his followers. He twice declined the chair of surgery in his University, and but a short time before his death was again urged to accept the same chair in Cincinnati. Most of his cases were reported in the New York Medical Times, The Cincinnati Lancet, Gross Surgery, New York American Monthly, American Chirurgical Review, and Louisville Semi-monthly News. Dr. Bradford died October 31st, 1871 in the 53rd. year of his life of abscess of the liver.

Brown, Dr. Gustavus Richard (1747-1804)Unit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/71020Graphic Materials S1 (box)Container 35 (item)Scope and Contents

This is a silhouette of Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown. It is a profile of his face, black image with white background. On reverse: Dr. Gustavus Richard Brown (1747-1804) Son of Dr. Gustavus Brown (1689-1763), who came to Caroline Co., Md. in 1708, and his 2nd wife Mrs. Margaret Black Boyd. Dr. G.R.B. was graduated M.D. from Edinburgh in 1768 having as fellow students Dr. Benj. Rush of Phila. and Dr. Walter Jones of Va. He then "walked" the hospitals in London several months before returning to Port Tobacco, Md. to settle into practice. He established a hospital in 1776 on the Va. side of the Potomac for the inoculation of smallpox. Drs. Craik and Dick called him as consultant in Gen. Washington's last illness. After the General's death Dr. Brown said in a letter he thought they were all wrong in bleeding the patient so much. In 1911 or '12, I bought this silhouette from an old lady at Williamsport, Md. who said it had belonged to her first husband's family who had been patients of Dr. Brown's.

Bruce, Dr. Archibald (1777-1818)Unit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/71021Graphic Materials S1 (box)Container 54 (item)Scope and Contents

Silhouett of Archibald Bruce, black, profile image of his head with a white background. On reverse: Silhouette of Dr. Archibald Bruce (1777-1818) bought in New York. He was a physician and mineralogist, son of William Bruce, head of the British Army in New York, and was born there during the Revolution. When his father was ordered to the West Indies, he specially directed that his son should not be brought up to the medical profession. After graduating in Arts at Columbia in 1795, he became interested in the lectures of Dr. Nicholas Romayne, and Dr. David Hosack and attended courses at Kings College. In 1798, he went to Europe where he travelled in France, Italy and Switzerland collecting a mineralogical cabinet of great value, and attending medical lectures at Univ. of Edinburgh, where he received his medical degree in 1800. He married in London and returned to New York in 1803 and began the practice of medicine, and 1807-1811 was professor of Materia Medica and mineralogy in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. In 1810 he edited the first purely scientific journal in America-The Journal of American Mineralogy. Died of Apoplexy Feb. 22, 1818.

On the reverse: Dr. George Cabell, Jr. / (1774-1827), Richmond, Virginia, Dr. George Cabell, Jr. so called to distinguish him from his first cousin, Dr. George Cabell, Sr. They were grandsons of Dr. William Cabell, founder of the family in Virginia. Dr. George Cabell, Jr. was born October 1774 at "Warminister," Nelson County, Virginia; studied medicine under his cousin, Dr. George Cabell, Sr., and later was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He then practiced in his native county as a partner of his brother-in-law, Dr. William B. Hare. When Dr. Hare moved to Harewood, Dr. Cabell soon went to Lynchburg, he is know to have been there in 1807, and was a partner of Dr. Southall, who died in 1817, and about the same time Mrs. Cabell died and soon afterward, Dr. Cabell removed to Richmond where he practiced until his death in 1827. Jan. 15, 1798, Dr. Cabell was married to Susannah Wyatt, after which he built and lived at "Bon Air," Nelson County. They were the parents of Dr. James Lawrence Cabell (1813-1889) a distinguished professor at the University of Virginia from 1837 to 1889. Notes from "The Cabells and Their Kin." This silhouette was purchased at the old Stone House, Richmond, Va. with others during my student days in Richmond, 1897-1900.

This is a silhouette of James Cocke, M.D. A profile of his face, black image on white background. On reverse: James Cocke, M.D. (1780-1813) Was born at Tar Bay below City oint, Va.; read medicine with one of the local doctors, and then became a pupil of Sir Astley Cooper at Guy's Hospital, London in 1801-02. For some reason he returned to America without taking his degree, but entered the University of Pennsylvania, receiving the degree of M.D. in 1804. His thesis at this time attracted a great deal of attention and was reprinted in 1806. The title was: "An attempt to ascertain the causes of the extraordinary inflammation which attacks wounded cavities and their contents." In this paper he ably advocated and defended the propriety and practicability of Ovariotomy--five years before McDowell performed his famous operation. In 1804 after graduation he located in Baltimore, and in 1807 associated himself with Dr. John Davidge in lecturing to private pupils, and still later they with Dr. John Shaw founded the College of Medicine of Maryland finally advancing it to the rank of University. Here he taught anatomy until his death in 1813. He was also an able surgeon, and in 1805 reduced a dislocation of the Humerus of seventeen weeks and three days standing and unsuccessful attempts of other surgeons. I bought this silhouette from a Howard Street dealer in Baltimore in 1905 or '06. It is identified by "Dr. James Cocke, Baltimore Town, Maryland on the back of the black part.

Va. / June 4, 1926 / Dear Dr. Miller, / I have been on a motor trip for over the holidays and have had quite and interesting time among the antique shops. I also am able to give you some information about the Hubard silhouette of Dr. Flower. / Dr. Benjamin Flower was a direct descendant of Benjamin Flower the composer of "Nearer My God To Thee" who was a publisher in Cambridge England. Dr. Flower was born in Hertfordshire Eng. about 1783. He followed his brother to this country in 1825 or perhaps earlier as he attended Kenturcky University when he made an extended study of medicine whence later he joined his brother in founding Edwards Co., Ill. later called Albion. From all accounts Dr. Flower died around 1830 as he was a man of frail constitution and not able to cope with the hardships of pioneering for this reason he has not been mentioned in the history and settlement of western Ill. as much as his brother Geo. Flower. / Hoping you will receive same in good condition and that it will prove interesting. / Sincerely I am, (signed) MR Nugent. Artist: Hubbard

Nugent, Central Park, Long Island, New York to Dr. Joseph Miller in Thoms, West Virginia: Dear Dr. Miller: In my last visit to Philadelphia I saw a group picture of three Peale silhouettes, Dr. Ben. Franklin, Dr. Ben Rush, and Dr. Drowne, in an old maple frame size 14 x 16 glass mat embellished with etched gilt eagle, this is a very beautiful picture, and is a rare piece for any collector. This is in the possession of an old lady in Philadelphia. I have an option on same which expires Jan. 15, if you are interested the price is [illegible]. Kindly advise me as soon as possible, so I can close my option and will send to you by express fully insured. Thanking you for an early reply I am, Yours truly, M. R. Nugent. The note at the bottom from Miller states: After receiving the above, I removed the portrait of Dr. Drowne, and substituted one I had of Dr. John Redman being more appropriate for the company of Benjamin Franklin and Dr. Benj. Rush. While it is slightly larger than the other two and stamped with the Peale's stamp, it resembles his work so much it was probably cut by him or an assistant. Dr. Redman was a lifetime friend of Franklin, and the preceptor of Rush of six years, so in my opinion makes the grouping better than by retaining the portrait of Dr. Drowne of Rhode Island, who may or may not have been an acquaintance of the other two. Drowne was a medical student at Univ. of Penn from which he was graduated MD in 1781.

Post, Dr. Sam Bard, Bottom Row, Dr. Edward Miller, Dr. Wm. MacNeven, and Dr. David Hosack. On reverse: This group of early New York City physicians were purchased in 1914 from an antique dealer, who claimed to have had them with a number of others (not of this series) from the family of a deceased physician who had collected them. They had all been disposed of but this group and one of Archibald Bruce, which I purchased. Very probably there were a number of other similar portraits in the series, but evidently none of the others had been found by the collector. They probably were painted about the beginning of the 19th century, or sometime between 1790 and 1810, and represent early members of the Medical Faculty of the old College of Physicians of Columbia University. For extended sketched see Kelly's American Medical Biographies, and History of the College of Physicians of N.Y. Jones, John. (1729-1791). Very prominent surgeon in New York City and later Philadelphia. First professor of anatomy and Obstetrics in Medical Department of the College of New York. See Kelly page 639. Romaine, Nicholas (1756-1817). One of the most highly educated physicians in New York. Professor on faculty of College of New York, and also a private teacher in medicine. "Anatomy, practice of physic, chemistry, and botany were all taught by this extraordinary man with such success that he drew hearers even from Canada." See Kelly, page 999. Mitchell, Samuel L. (1764-1831). One of the most prominent physicians and naturalists in New York City. Member of the faculty of the College of New York. His first course of lectures on natural history including, geology, mineralogy, zoology, ichthyology and botany were in extenso in the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1811. "He was the delight of a meeting of naturalists; the seed he sowed gave origin and growth to a mighty crop of those disciples of natural science. He was, emphatically, our greatest living ichthyologist." See Kelly page 807. Bard, Samuel (1742-1821). President of the College of Physicians & Surgeons of New York. Prof. of the theory & practice of medicine. His favorite branch was midwifery, and in 1807 published his treatise on that subject being the author of the first American textbook on obstetrics. See Kelly page 59. Post, Philip Wright (1766-1828). Pupil of John Hunter of London, Prof. of Anatomy in the College of Physicians & Surgeons, New York, 1792-1813 and after that date in Columbia University. Prominent as a surgeon in the first quarter of the 19th century etc. See Kelly, page 927. Miller, Edward (1760-1812). Surgeon in the Navy during the Revolution. Attended lectures at the Univ. of Penn. for two years at close of war, receiving his degree in 1785. Removed to New York in 1796 and following year joined J.L. Mitchell and Elihu Smith in editing the Medical Repository, physician to Port of N.Y. 1803 et sub. prof. of Practice of Medicine 1807 in College of P. & S. Clinical Lecturer at N.Y. Hospital in 1809. He was among the earliest to note the advantages of clinical instruction and study of pathological anatomy. See Kelly page 792. Macneven, Wm. James (1763-1841). Born in Ireland, sent at the age of 10, to his uncle Baron (and Doctor) McNeven, Court Physician to the Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, who had him educated in Prague and Vienna, where he received the degree of M.D. from the Univ. of Vienna in 1785. Mixed up in the seditious affairs in Ireland he was arrested in 1798 and confined in Scotland, and was refused admission to the U.S. by Rufus King, Ambassador at London. Released in 1802 and in 1804 came to New York City, and began practice at once. In 1806 received honorary degree of M.D. from Columbia. 1807 appointed professor of Obstetrics at Coll. of P. & S., later had chairs of Chemistry and Materia Medica added to his duties. "Dr. William McNeven was a light of no ordinary luster in the annals of American Medical History." Hosack, David (1769-1835). "David Hosack was one of those who live for tomorrow, who doggedly advocate and carry out reforms for which they themselves get neither credit nor profit." Graduated M.D. from the Univ. of Penn. 1791. Spent two years in the hospitals of Edinburgh and London under the great men of that day in those cities. Offered professor of Botany chair by Columbia in 1795. Did great service in the Yellow Fever epidemic of that year and was taken into partnership with Dr. Samuel Bard. Was a great botanist and mineralogist. Founded the Humane Society. Excellent surgeon, introducing new operations from Europe. Was the first American to tie the femoral artery for aneurism, 1808. Professor of surgery and midwifery College of P. & S. 1807-1826. See Kelly, page 561.

Scope and Contents

This group of two silhouettes contains Dr. Henry Cary Hampton and Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hampton. There is also a silhouette of the face of a house with trees around it. The images are black with white background, glass matte surrounded by wooden frame. There is handwriting all over the white background. On reverse: Dr. Henry Cary Hampton (1754-1840), Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hampton (1758-1802). His Home "Soldier's Claim." Dr. Henry Cary Hampton, was the 2nd son of Capt. Henry Hampton, "Buckland," Prince William County, Virginia, and his first wife Elizabeth Cary Hobson, daughter of William Hobson of Northumberland County. Henry Hampton, Sr. (1721-1778) was the 5th son of John and Margaret Wade Hampton of Fairfax County, and brother of Anthony Hampton who went to South Carolina and was the father of the first Gen. Wade Hampton (old Bible records and other family letters and papers). Dr. Henry Cary Hampton, was educated at private schools in Virginia, and read medicine for 4 years (1771-1775) under Dr. Andrew Robertson, a Scotch surgeon who settled in Lancaster Co., Va. after the French and Indian War. The certificate he gave to Dr. Hampton is still preserved and as an example of practice of that day I will copy it here. "These presents will inform all whom are concerned that Mr. Cary Henry Hampton of the County of Prince William in the Colony of Virginia hath Completed his Apprentisship to my Instruction in the Arts & Sciences of Anatomy, Chirurgery, Physic and Midwifery to all of which for the space of years he hath been Studious & Diligent. He is well grounded in the teachings of Cheseldens Anatomy, Heisters Surgery, Cullens Materia Medica, Smellies Midwifery, the Works of our Masters Sydenham & Hippocrates which he hath read in the Latin tongue, as well as many other books of our Profession, and in the Instruction I have give to him at the beds of my Patients & elsewhere. So I repose my Confidence in his knowledge & Recommend him to all those who require his Skill & Services. Given under my hand & seal this the 1st Day of August 1775. Andrew Robertson Doctor in Medicine. (Wax Seal)" Later Dr. Hampton entered the Continental Army as an assistant surgeon and in 1783 received back pay to the amount of 113 pounds and 4 shillings. After the death of his father he dropped the name of Cary and in 1798 removed to some French and Indian War lands inherited from his father on the Ohio River where Huntington, West Va. now stands. This silhouette was cut in 1802, by an artist who stopped at Dr. Hampton's home as he was travelling to Cincinnati to open a studio (name not given) and sent by Dr. Hampton to his brother, William Hampton of "Cedar Hill," Fauquier Co. Va. whose descendants returned it to Mrs. Miller (see Pamela Hampton of Ashland, Ky.) who was a great, great granddaughter of Dr. Hampton. The simiar treatment of the dress in this and the sihouettes of Dr. Richard Alison and Dr. Daniel Drake of Cincinnati, would indicate they were cut by the same artist and confirms Dr. Hampton's statement on the back of his silhouette hat the artist who cut his was en route to Cincinnati or Lexington to open a studio. Dr. Hampton's letter on back of silhouette. "Soldier's Claim." "Brother William, Mr. Thornton will hand you these likenesses cut by a gentleman who stopped with me as he passed down the Ohio to Lexington in Kentucky to take up his residence as a painter of portraits. He has limnd [?] my likeness in Color and all agree it is a fine one of the subject. He cut these one night as we sat around the fire you no doubt have seen like them before. You must put a sheet of black paper or cloth behind them. You will notice we are comfortably tho not finely housed. There is not much news since my letter of you of date of March 22. and Mr. Thornton can give you that with more ease than I can write it. I shall be glad to have a letter from you at your first opportunity & hope you are well. Yr. brother, Henry Hampton."

Legislature, 1799-1801 and probably 1802. Married on July 11, 1793 Elizabeth Cabell at "Liberty Hall", the Cabell home. She died in 1802, and about 1804 he removed to "Harewood" in Nelson Co. 1805 to 1810, was a member of the Council of State. Died at "Harewood" 28th June 1818. "He was a man of complaisant, agreeable manners, friendly and affable and very popular." - Notes from "The Cabells & Their Kin." While student in Richmond, 1897-1900, I bought this silhouette with those of Drs. John Cullen and George Cabell at the curio and junk shop kept at that time in the Old Stone House on Main St. --now the Poe Shrine. This silhouette is evidently older than the others and probably cut about 1795-1800, while the others were probably cut about 1820-25, and by a different artist. They probably all belonged to one person originally ---a friend or relative of one or more of them.

A silhouette of Dr. Aquila Leighton Knight. The subject is facing left and the silhouette is a head and shoulders view. On the reverse: Knight, Aquila Leighton. West Columbia, West Va., was born in the county of Mason, Va., December 25, 1823. He is the son of George Ray Knight, whose ancestors came from England. He was educated by private tutors, and studied medicine in the med. dept. of the Western Reserve College in Ohio, graduating M. D., March 1850, and settled in West Columbia in the general practice of medicine and surgery, in which latter branch he has performed a number of successful operations. He is a member of the Meigs and Mason acad. of med.; was its president in 1866 and 1872; of the Mason co. med.soc., West Va., was its president in 1876; of the Meigs co. med. soc., president in 1875; of the Ohio valley med. asso., and of the West Va. State med. soc., its vice president in 1874. To the literature of his profession he has contributed and article on "Clay as a Therapeutical Agent," Southern Medical Record; "Ischuria Renalis," Medical and Surgical Reporter, Philadelphia; "Differential Diagnosis of Diphtheria." Southern Medical Record; "Duodenitis, ibid.;" "Medical Jurisprudence." Cincinnati

Lancet and Observer, etc. In 1861 he entered the southern army as a private, and after serving three months, was detailed as surgeon in Brigadier-General John Floyd's division, and captured. After being six months in prison, with an indictment for treason hanging over him, he was released with the loss of all his property. He returned to the practice of his profession in 1863. In 1855 he married Susan Frances, daughter of Wyatt Willis, Esq., of Lawrence co., Ohio. Dr. Knight died in June 1897. This silhouette of him was cut about 1845-6 and given to me by him in July 1896. He was a talented artist and several of his paintings of historic scenes in Western Virginia were burned in the West Virginia state capitol.

A silhouette of Rene La Roche, Jr., M.D. (1795-1872) This well known Philadelphia physician was the son of a French physician of the same name who was a graduate of the University of Montpellier, and a practitioner in San Domingo until the insurrection in that island when he came to Philadelphia, where he died in 1819. Dr. LaRoche, Jr. was born in Philadelphia and at the age of 17 served in the War of 1812 as a captain under Col. Chapman Biddle. After the war he entered the Univ. of Penn., and was graduated in medicine in 1820. Besides being one of the founders of the Monday Evening Club, said to be the first medical club in the United States, active member of the College of Physicians, president of the county and state medical societies, trustees of the University, editor of the North American Medical and Surgical Journal, etc. he was an assiduous writer on medical subjects, his chief work being a treatise on Yellow Fever, which Gross said was . "A work of profound erudition, at once complete and exhaustive." In his autobiography Dr. Gross also said: "Dr. LaRoche had an expressive and intellectual countenance, a handsome eye, and a good forehead, although his head was not very large. His highly organized and well-balanced brain enabled him to perform a vast amount of labor. In his physique he was so fragile that it seemed as if a heavy wind might readily blow him over. I knew LaRoche personally for more than a third of a century, a part of this time intimately, and during all that time he retained his attenuated form." This original silhouette was cut by the famous Edouart on December 12, 1843, and mounted on one of his lithographed backgrounds. I bought it from Mr. George H. Rigby, Philadelphia in 1919. The name and date in Edouart's handwriting are on the back of the mount. Artist: Auguste Edouart

Silhouette of Dr. James McCaw of Richmond, Virginia. The subject is facing left and the silhouette is a full body view. The background is a pencil sketch with trees on some rocks. On the reverse: This old silhouette of Dr. James McCaw of Richmond, Virginia, was bought with the one of the duel between Doctors Archer and Crump at the Old Stone House on Main Street while I was a student in Richmond, and evidently they are by the same artist, unknown. Whether they are actual likenesses I do not know. The artist was evidently another doctor, hence the professional subjects for his scissors. Dr. McCaw was the son of Dr. James McCaw, a Scottish surgeon of Wigonshire, Scotland, who came to Virginia in 1771 and settled near Norfolk. Dr. James McCaw, Jr., was a pupil of Benjamin Bell at Edinburgh and later a graduate in medicine of the University of Edinburgh. After his return to Virginia he practiced in Richmond until his death in 1842.

Silhouette of Dr. James McClurg, black profile of his face on a white background. On reverse: Dr. James McClurg (1745-1823) was a very prominent physician of Williamsburg, Va. and in the Revolutionary War. Son of Dr. Walter McClurg, a wealthy physician of Elizabeth City Co., Va. Graduate of Wm. & Mary College, 1762 and of Univ. of Edinburgh in Medicine 1770, later studied for three years in hospitals of London and Paris. This old silhouette was found between the leaves of a copy of Heister's surgery, which bears Dr. McClurg's autograph on the title page and front cover, which I bought in New York some years ago. Probably at the time it was cut it was placed there and forgotten while waiting to get some black paper to place behind it. The black paper and frame are modern.

A silhouette of Ephraim McDowell, M. D. (1771-1830). He is facing right and the silhouette is a head and shoulders view. On the reverse: Ephraim McDowell (1771-1830) By birth a Virginian, by adoption a Kentuckian, and by his (missing) a leader of the Medical World --designated as "The Father of Ovariectomy." In 1809 in a small Kentucky village, threatened by a mob of the patient's friends if he were not successful, he removed a large ovarian tumor that was rapidly hastening to a fatal termination of the patient. Within the next seven years he did two more successfully operations for similar trouble before reporting them. By 1820 he had operated seven times, with but one death. This original silhouette portrait of McDowell was given to Dr. Elisha Bartlett, an admirer of McDowell, who was professor of the Theory & Practice of Medicine at Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky from 1841-1844. In the latter year when leaving Kentucky to take a chair in the University of Maryland, he presented it with one of himself to one of his favorite pupils, Dr. Fielding Davis of Woodford County, Kentucky. Dr. Davis being a great uncle of mine presented these silhouettes to me in 1905 shortly before his death. For his medical education, McDowell returned to Virginia, where he read medicine with Dr. Alexander Humphreys of Staunton, who in 1794 assisted Dr. Jesse Bennett perform the first successful Cesarean Section in America. After reading medicine with Dr. Humphreys, McDowell went to Edinburgh in 1793 where he remained for the session of 1793-94, but left without obtaining his degree. In 1839 without solicitation the University of Maryland conferred the degree of M. D. upon him.

Mettauer, Dr. John PeterUnit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/71050Graphic Materials S2 (box)Container 51 (item)Scope and Contents

This is a silhouette of Dr. John Peter Mettauer. It is framed with a glass matte surrounded by a wooden frame. On the reverse, "Of the many able men the Old Dominion has given to the medical profession, Mettauer was, unquestionably, the most remarkable. By nature, a great surgeon, he also was an able physician, and a voluminous contributor to medical literature. His marvelous surgical skill and ingenuity soon obtained for him such a reputation that, despite the fact of his work lying in an obscure country village and before the days of numerous railroads patients flocked to him from all around, some even from abroad. He performed almost, if not every operation known in his day and it is certain he did more than 800 operations for cataract. In operations for vesical calculus, his operation exceeded by 175, Dudley's 225 To him unquestionably belongs the priority for the cure of vesico-vaginal fistula. His first successful operation was done in August 1838, and preceded Dr. Hayward's by a year and Sims' by ten. He was the first surgeon in Va. and one of the first in the U.S. to operate successfully for cleft palate, his 1st operation having been done in 1827. The most notable of his articles was one entitled 'The Continued fever of Middle Virginia from 1816 to 1829' which shows conclusively that he recognized Typhoid fever as a distinct disease, and was familiar with its characteristic lesions. For further account of his surgical and medical work and his work as a teacher in the Randolph-Macon Medical College, formerly known as Mettauer's Medical Institute, and in the Washington Univ. of Baltimore, see sketch in Kelly's Am. Med. Biographies, and Dr. Geo. Ben Johnson's Presidential Address to the American Surgical Association in 1905. 'He would never assist in an operation, having an insuperable objection to matching another's work. He was also remarkable for the care and detail of his preparation for an operation, being far ahead of his time in this.' 'He invariably wore a tall stovepipe hat which nothing could induce him to remove, and he wore it everywhere and, on all occasions, even at meals and it is said also in bed. He never attended service in any church, a fact attributed to his unwillingness to remove his hat. When called upon to testify in court, he always declined to remove his headgear. He even left directions that he should be buried in it, so that it was necessary to have a coffin made eight feet long to allow for this.' Dr. Mettauer was the son of Dr. Francis Joseph Mettauer, one of two brothers who came as regimental surgeons with Gen. Lafayette. After the battle of Yorktown his regiment was stationed in Pr. Edward Co., and he was persuaded to settle there after the war, where he married Elizabeth Gaulding, and his son was born. Dr. John Peter Mettauer was graduated A.B. from Hampden-Sydney College in 1806, also rec'd degrees of A.M. and LLd. later in life. In 1809 took his degree of M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania."

This frame includes two silhouettes, Drs. James Moultrie, Sr. and Jr., with a glass mat surrounded by a wooden frame. Each of their faces are directed towards the right. On reverse: "These silhouettes cut about 1812-20 represent two members of one of South Carolina's most distinguished 'medical families' which in four generations covered one hundred and forty years continuous practice in Charleston. They were: Dr. John Moultrie, Sr. of French Hougonot descent who came from Scotland to Charleston prior to 1729 and until his death in 1773 'he stood at the very head of his profession in that city, and was especially distinguished for his skill in obstetrics and his death was regarded as a public calamity.' His eldest son- Dr. John Moultrie, Jr. was the first native American to graduate in Medicine abroad. He took his degree at Univ. of Edinburgh in 1749, defending as his inaugural thesis 'Febre maligna biliosa Americae' (Yellow Fever), a rare copy of which is in my collection. 'He was a distinguished scholar and eminent practitioner of medicine in Charleston.' During the Revolution he was a Royalist or Tory, though his younger brother William (1731-1805) was a distinguished general in the Continental Army. It is uncertain whether he was the uncle or father of-- Dr. James Moultrie, Sr., who like the others is said to have been a most scholarly and distinguished member of the profession for many years in Charleston, and was succeeded by his son Dr. James Moultrie, Jr. (1793-1869) whom he sent to England for part of his education. However he returned to America for his medical education and received his degree of M.D. at the age of 19 from the Univ. of Pa. in 1812. During his long life he held a most distinguished position in the profession in South Carolina. Was a surgeon in the War of 1812; physician to the Port of Charleston; and as early as 1822 began working to establish a medical college in Charleston, which was accomplished in 1824 and for many years he was professor of physiology. He was a member of two important French Medical Societies; of his state Medical Society which sent him as a delegate in 1847 to help establish the American Medical Ass'n of which he was elected one of its first vice-presidents and in 1851 president. Though he was married in 1816 he never had any children.

This group of two silhouettes includes Dr. William Hall Richardson and Dr. Benjamin Winslow Dudley, black images of faces on white background. On the reverse, "These silhouette portraits of two of the most distinguished members of the Medical Faculty of the old Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky., were purchased at a small antique shop in Louisville, Ky. in 1920 when I was visiting my mother. The caligraphic finish to the busts, being exactly the same as that of a silhouette of my great, great grandfather, Thomas Davis, of Woodford County, Ky., which we know was cut by an unknown artist who was with Ollendorf and Mason's Wax Works, exhibited at the Kentucky Hotel, Lexington, in August, 1809. Who announced through the Lexington papers that they 'Respectfully acquaint the ladies and gentlemen of Lexington and Vicinity that they have opened at the Kentucky Hotel a new and elegant collection of wax figures if not superior to any exhibited in America.' Among others mentioned were: 'An excellent representation of Geo. Washington giving orders to the Marquis de la Fayette, his aid,' 'General Bonaparte in Marshall Action,' 'The Duel between Alex. Hamilton and Aaron Burr,' and many other famous personages. At the end of the advertisement it is stated: 'Profiles taken with accuracy at the Museum.' Both the family silhouette and this have similar painted mats. Dr. William Hall Richardson (d. 1844) was elected to the Chair of Obstetrics at the organization of the Medical Dept. of Transylvania University in 1815 and continued in his connection with the faculty until his death. "He was a man of great energy and many admirable traits of character." His old home 'Caneland' with his name on the old brass knocker, still stands near Lexington. Educated at the Univ. of Penn. 1804. See Hist. of Transylvania Univ. Dr. Benjamin Winslow Dudley (1785-1870) 'was a long time the unrivaled surgeon of the Mississippi Valley, one of the founders of the earliest of our western schools of medicine.' In 1804 went to the medical department of the Univ. of Pa. having as fellow students the later famous physicians, Daniel Drake, John Esten Cooke, and Wm. H. Richardson, all of whom were later associated with him on the Faculty of Transylvania. Was graduated in 1806, and then 1810 to 1814 spent four years in the hospitals of Paris and London. For extensive biography see Hist. of Transylvania University, Kelly's Med. Biographies and other biographical works. A curious incident in connection with these two old doctors is that--in 1817 Dr. Dudley became involved in a quarrel with Dr. Daniel Drake, Prof. of Materia Medica, which becoming quite bitter, Dudley challenged Drake to fight a duel. Drake refused, and then Drake's friend Dr. Richardson (also a friend of Dudley) accepted the challenge for Drake. At the first fire the inguinal artery in Richardson's groin was severed by Dudley's ball, and he would have speedily bled to death, but for Dudley's skill and magnanimity. He immediately asked permission to stop the hemorrhage, which he did with his thumb until Richardson's surgeon could apply a tourniquet. From this time on Dudley and Richardson were even greater friends than they had been previously."

Silhouette of Dr. Andrew Robertson, head and shoulders view and the subject is facing left. On the reverse: Dr. Andrew Robertson, (1716-1795) born in Scotland, graduated from the University of Edinburgh, entered the British Army and served three years in Flanders, being present at the battle of Fontenoy in 1745. Ten years later he came with his regiment to America and was in the disastrous campaign against Ft. DuQuesne. With Twenty men he managed to escape the carnage of Braddock's defeat and made his way to Dunbar's camp, to which the remnant of the army under Col. Washington had retreated. Soon after this he resigned his commission and emigrated to Virginia with his wife and child. They settled in Lancaster County where he acquired a high reputation and an extensive practice, and was especially noted for his charity and attention to the indigent sick. He acquired considerable wealth and was married four times, the last wife being his first patient when he came to Va.--at that time she was a little girl with measles. He contributed many articles to the Medical press of his day, most of them being published in the London Medical Inquiries and Observations. Like most physicians of his day who held a high reputation he attracted many students, among whom was Henry Cary Hampton, son of Henry Hampton of "Buckland," Prince William County, Va., a first cousin of Gen. Wade Hampton of the Revolution of South Carolina. Dr. Hampton studied under Dr. Robertson for two years and received from him a certificate of proficiency in August 1775. (This is still preserved by his descendants. Folded up with this certificate and other papers was this silhouette bearing inscription as shown.). Instead of the usual commercial black paper this seems to be on of those rare "smoke stained" silhouettes, in which the black is derived from pine soot and beer, or candle smoke collected on a plate and mixed with sizing. Note the stain of it where the paper has been folded over. This silhouette came to me from my wife--a great granddaughter of Dr. Hampton.

Shippen, which had been presented to Dr. Rose by Shippen --see his note on back of Morgan portrait. So far I have found no biographical sketch of Dr. Rose, but do have an original copy of his inaugural thesis for the degree of M.D. from the Univ. of Penn. on the 19th of May 1794, on the subject of "Effects of the Passions Upon the Body" which he dedicates to Dr. Shippen ---"A Man whose character, as a Professor, is deservedly considered in many respects as unparalleled, and as a physician and a citizen, justly stands in the highest point of esteem, &c. &c..... and gratitude will not allow me to pass unnoticed the undisguised acts of friendship and hospitality I always experienced within your walls, etc. etc."

This is a profile image of the head of Dr. William Shippen, Jr., a black image on a white background. On reverse: Dr. William Shippen, Jr., (1736-1808) "The first in America to lecture on midwifery, and to establish a hospital for its teaching." Son of prominent Philadelphia physician. A.B. Princeton, 1754; M.D. Edinburgh, 1761. Had previously studied under his father, 1754-58, and 1758-9 anatomy under John Hunter and midwifery under William Hunter in London. He turned to Phila. and in Nov. 1762 opened a private school for lectures, dissections, and demonstrations in Anatomy, & Surgery. Joined Morgan in founding Phila. Med. Coll. in 1765, holding the chairs of Anatomy & Surgery; and was the only member of the old faculty who became a member of the faculty of the Univ. of Penn. on its creation in 1779. Succeeded Morgan as Director General of the Medical forces of the Continental Army, which caused an estrangement through no fault of Shippen. The inscription on the back of the Morgan silhouette would indicate this was healed before Morgan died.

Shippen, Thomas Lee (1768-1798)Unit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/71061Graphic Materials S1 (box)Container 44 (item)Scope and Contents

A profile image of Thomas Lee Shippen On reverse: This silhouette and its companion were purchased Nov. 23, 1926 from Mr. J.J. Schwarz, N. Howard St. Baltimore, and are a most happy "find." Mr. Schwarz said they were sold to him by a Mrs. Carr living outside of Baltimore, and were said to be portraits of Gen. Washington and a son of Robt. Fulton, inventor of the steamboat. She had no proof, and such data as he found on the back of the silhouettes proved this a mistake. On the card back of this portrait are the initials "T.L.S. 1792," and the card back of the other bears the name "W. Shippen." Folded under the wood-on back of this frame is an old advertisement of "John King's Gold & Silver Leaf Manufactory, S.W. Corner Dock and Walnut St., Philadelphia." King was a prominent manufacturer of gold leaf and fine frames in Phila. the first quarter of the 19th century and probably the last decade of the 18th. Only small fragments of paper pasted on back of this portrait mount are left, but that over the other portrait is still present and bears the following inscription: "By Mrs. Beetham, 26 Fleet St., & 18 Judd Place West, haw Roads, London;" and below "Opened by G. Young and M.W. Pierce, Baltimore, Md. No. 7 Lexington St., Sept. 17, 1874." Evidently they, too, were looking for evidence of the claim of its being a Washington portrait. Apparently the name "W. Shippen" and initials "T.L.S." meant nothing to either them or Mr. S. Thomas Lee Shippen, M.D. (1768-1798), only son of the famous Philadelphia physician, Wm. Shippen, Jr. (1736-1808) and his wife a daughter of Thomas Lee of Virginia. He was well educated having four years abroad in completing his course in medicine. Dr. Caspar Wistar in 1808 spoke of him as a "man of talents and information" and that his father "gave him the fairest portion of his estate, and, to obtain leisure and exemption from care, procured the establishment of an adjunct professorship of anatomy." But his health failed and he died in 1798 almost prostrating his father, who had held such hopes for the career of his son. Dr. T.L. Shippen married Elizabeth Carter Farley and had a son, William Shippen, born Jan. 29, 1792, died June 5, 1867. He was the fourth Doctor Shippen in direct line, and the 3rd. who was professor of Anatomy at the University of Pennsylvania.

A silhouette of William Shippen, Jr., M.D. (1736-1808). Shippen was the son of Dr. William Shippen (1712-1801) and his wife Susannah Harrison. William Shippen, Jr. was educated at Nottingham Academy, Maryland, under the famous Rev. Samuel Finley; was graduated A. B. from Princeton in 1754; read medicine under his father until 1758 when he went to London, where he studied anatomy with John Hunter. Obstetrics with Wm. Hunter; also had work with Sir John Pringle, Dr. Wm. Hewson and others and took his degree of M. D. from the Univ. of Edinburgh in 1762. Returned to Philadelphia and began giving private lectures, dissections and demonstrations in Anatomy, Surgery and Midwifery. With Dr. John Morgan founded the Philadelphia Medical College (now the Univ. of Penn.) in 1765 --the first medical school in America, and continued on the faculty until his death in 1808. One of the founders of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia and of it 1805-1808. Saw active service in charge of Military Hospitals of the Continental forces, etc. Caspar Wistar, who knew Dr. Shippen intimately gives a delightful pen picture of him: "His person was graceful, his manners polished, his conversation various, and the tones of his voice singularly sweet and conciliatory. In his intercourse with society he was gay without proverbial for good temper. His father whom he strongly resembled in this respect, during the long life of ninety years had scarcely ever been seen out of humor. He was also particularly agreeable to young people. Known as he was to almost every citizen of Philadelphia, it is probably that there was no one who did not wish him well." It is most unfortunate that this portrait was unsealed in 1874 as that probably accounts largely for its present state of disrepair. It was evidently painted while Dr. Shippen was visiting England when his son was there as Mrs. Beetham never came to America as did Hubbard and Edouart who were celebrated silhouettists.

This silhouette is a profile of Dr. Nathan Smith's face, black image on white background. On reverse: Dr. Nathan Smith (1762-1869) Kelly's Am. Med. Biographies, page 1073, 2nd, ed., says: "Nathan Smith was one of the great pioneers of American Medicine, and during his lifetime was the omnipresent genius in New England Medicine." Rec'd degree of Bachelor of Medicine from Harvard Medical School in 1790, the 5th. student to from the medical school in the third class. In 1811, the degree of M.D. was conferred upon all previous graduates in medicine from this school which included Dr. Smith. In 1796 he began his efforts to establish a school of medicine at Dartmouth College, and in the fall of 1797, after taking special courses in Edinburgh and London, he delivered his first course of lectures in medicine at Dartmouth. In 1798, the Trustees established the medical dept. with Dr. Smith as professor, lecturing on anatomy, surgery, chemistry and physics. As Abraham Flennor remarked in speaking of this the 4th medical in America, "Nathan Smith was its entire faculty and a very able faculty at that." In 1812 Yale College established its medical department and invited Dr. Smith to become professor of Theory & Practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics, which he accepted. There were thirty members in the first class of 1813. He was thus associated with the founding of the 6th. medical college in the U.S. In 1821 the med. dept. of Bowdoin College was organized with summer lectures and Dr. Smith gave these until 1825, and continued his work at Yale in the winter. For extensive biographical sketch see Kelly's book, 1073-1076. I purchased this silhouette in Jan. 1926 from Russell Nugent. Central Park, Long Island.

Washington, Dr. Bailey (1787-1854)Unit ID /repositories/3/archival_objects/71064Graphic Materials S1 (box)Container 17 (item)Scope and Contents

Washington's silhouette is a full body image with the subject facing right. The scenery behind the silhouette is a pencil sketch with mountains in the distant background. On the reverse: Dr. Bailey Washington, son of Lawrence Washington, nephew of George Washington, was born in Westmoreland County, Virginia May 12, 1787; died in Washington City, August 4, 1854. He was graduated in medicine in 1810 from the University of Pennsylvania, Surgeon in the U. S. Navy in 1813, and during the War of 1812 was surgeon on the "Enterprise" when she captured the "Boxer." Later on Lake Ontario was selected as Fleet surgeon, although a junior officer. Still later served as Fleet Surgeon in the Mediterranean, and closed his service in the Navy during the Mexican War. At the time of his death was visiting Surgeon of the Navy Yard and Marine Barricks, Washington. This silhouette signed by Edouart and on original mount often used by that famous silhouettist, bears on the back the figure "B. Washington, M. D. 16 August 1841, Washington, D. C." Artist: Auguste Edouart
