Biographical / Historical

Born December 22, 1926 in Charleston, West Virginia, Charles Peters, creator and publisher of The Washington Monthly, went on to attend Charleston High School, graduating in 1944. That same year, Peters enlisted with the U.S. Army where an injury in a training accident resulted in a long stay in Army hospitals before being discharged from the Army in 1946.

Using the G.I. Bill, Peters went to New York City to attend Columbia College, earning a BA in 1949. Peters continued his education at Columbia, entering their graduate program and earning his MA in 1951. Between the years of 1952 and 1953 Peters worked for the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency in New York. A fan of theater, Peters also performed various backstage roles between the years of 1946-1954 at a variety of theaters, and even owned his own repertory company in Charleston, West Virginia. Peters entered the University of Virginia Law School in 1954 and was named to the editorial board of the Virginia Law Review in 1955, serving until his graduation in 1957.

After earning his law degree, Peters and his wife, Elizabeth Hubbell, returned to Charleston, West Virginia to practice law at his father's firm, Peters, Merricks, Leslie, and Mohler. In 1959, he was named chief staff officer of the Judiciary Committee of the West Virginia House of Delegates before being elected to the House in 1960. In that same year, Peters also managed the primary and general election campaigns for presidential candidate John F. Kennedy. After serving in the 1961 session of the state legislature, he went to Washington, D.C. to assist in the formation of the Peace Corps. Returning in 1962 to serve in the legislative session, he was named the Peace Corps' Director of Evaluation.

In 1968, Peters resigned from his position with the Peace Corps and began planning the publication of a new magazine called The Washington Monthly. The magazine's prospectus said its purpose would be "to look at Washington the way an anthropologist looks at a South Sea island, helping the reader understand our system of politics and government, where it breaks down, why it breaks down, and what can be done to make it work." The first issue was published in January 1969. Throughout its publication, the magazine featured numerous unknown authors who later became influential journalists, including Pulitzer Prize winners such as Taylor Branch and Jon Meacham, among others. Peters served as the editor of the magazine until his retirement in 2001, continuing to write a regular column until 2014. Peters authored five books and coediting five more.

Scope and Contents

This series includes newspaper clippings and printed articles used for research by Peters from ca. 1990s-2010s. A majority of the clippings and articles feature some sort of notation made by Peters, typically in the form of underlining, circling, or a combination of the two with some occasional written notations. The series covers a variety of subjects that mostly correlate with the topics found in Series 1.

The box numbers in this series correspond with those labeled with the letters SEP in Series 1, indicating that the contents were separated from boxes in Series 2 and placed in boxes with corresponding numbers in Series 1.

Boxes: 2-9, 13, 15, 17-19, 22-23, 24.1, 24.2, 24.3, 24.4, 25.1, 25.2, 26-27, 29, 33.1, 33.2, 34, 36.1, 36.2, 37.1, 37.2, 37.3, 38.1, 38.2, 38.3, 39, 40.1, 40.2, 40.3, 41, 42.2, 43.1, 43.2, 43.3, 44, 46, 54-61.
